CED faculty and students have made a few recent appearances in the news. A BLA student and regular columnist for the local Flagpole magazine, Kevan Williams, wrote about his participation in an Athens redevelopment conference. Faculty member Alfie Vick’s work on a reconstruction of a historic Cherokee village was profiled in Oklahoma’s Talequah Daily Press. Also, CED students took second and third place in the 2010 Park Pride Design Competition, as well as two honorary mentions.
