College of Environment + Design UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

We'd like to congratulate our Dean – Dan Nadenicek – for being awarded the distinction of Fellow of the Council of Educators in Landscape Architecture (CELA) at the organization's annual conference in March. Membership in the Academy is limited to five individuals per year and nominations and elections are conducted by CELA Fellows with assistance from the CELA Board of Directors.

Those elected to the Academy of Fellows have demonstrated a lifetime of accomplishments in teaching, scholarship, and service "...that add-up to excellent endeavor sustained over an extended period of time and that is truly inspiring and significant," according to the mission of the board.

Dean Nadenicek has served the College of Environment and Design since 2008 and holds the Draper Chair in Landscape Architecture. In addition to leading the college, Dean Nadenicek has taught numerous classes, published extensively, and sits on several boards across the country, including as current president of the board of the Library of American Landscape History. He serves as co-editor of Landscape Journal, the scholarly publication of CELA.
